Dear IPS Families,

I hope this newsletter finds you well?

As we continue to move forward together, I wanted to share some important updates and celebrations from our school community.

Our newly established PTFA has been bustling with energy and exciting plans for the school, our member numbers are growing and if you would like to join this exciting team then please do not hesitate to come and see me. Our first PTFA event will be a Parent and Child craft session taking place on Tuesday 11th November in school at 2pm - watch out for the fliers to book a place.

I'm particularly proud of our recent successful fundraising efforts, including the Macmillan and Jeans for Genes events, which demonstrate the incredible spirit of our school community.

We've expanded our after-school provision with a new club that has already proven popular among our children. To support our families, I want to clarify our current club charges: Breakfast Club is £2, with a reduced rate of £6 for families with more than three children. After-school club fees are £4 per child. Please check our website and FB page for the exciting activities planned for after half-term.

Our pupil voice is stronger than ever, with newly recruited Equality Champions and School Council members who have ambitious plans to enhance our school experience.

We remain steadfast in our commitment to attendance, continuing to emphasise our "Every Day Matters" approach.

We're delighted to continue offering free toast and a drink to all children every morning from 8:40am, ensuring our children start their day nourished and ready to learn.

This term has been filled with remarkable achievements. Martin Mere wildlife trust came into school to present one of our children, Summer Duxbury, with an award - the only child in the country to complete all their 'nature tasks' Summer really engaged with their learning program - our very own Richard Attenborough, we are very proud of Summer.

Our Intack football team also secured an impressive first match victory, showcasing the talent and determination of our children.
